2022
HAPPY NEW YEAR

What is your word for the year?

January is a month where many make resolutions for the year. We all know that most of the resolutions don't last longer than a few weeks. Four years ago, I started selecting a "word for the year" for myself. The "word of the year" provides an intentional framework for all actions throughout the year to focus on one goal. My 2022 word is "prepared." I want to make sure that I take the time to do the little things that will make my days run more smoothly. As your President, I want to prepare by learning as much as I can so that I can represent you in the best way possible.

This year I would like for EWI of Dallas to select a "word for the year" for our Chapter. The word should embody the spirit of the 70 years our chapter has served the Dallas community. The "word of the year" should consider the future of the Chapter. What is the one thing we should focus on this year that will help ensure 70 more successful years?

Submit your thoughts for the "word of the year" here.

I hope you will enjoy this special issue of the EWIConnect that will honor the Chapter's rich history. We had a wonderful time at the 70th Anniversary Celebration. I want to thank all of the Blue, Silver and Platinum sponsors, visitors, and members [past and present] for attending. I especially want to thank the planning committee, Janie Sandoval, Sustaining Life Member, Danielle Forney, Neuberger Bergman, Jennifer Clark, Dallas Hearing Foundation, KeChan Patterson, Dallas Downtown, Inc., and the Mistress of Ceremonies Lindsey Jones, Ameriprise Financial.

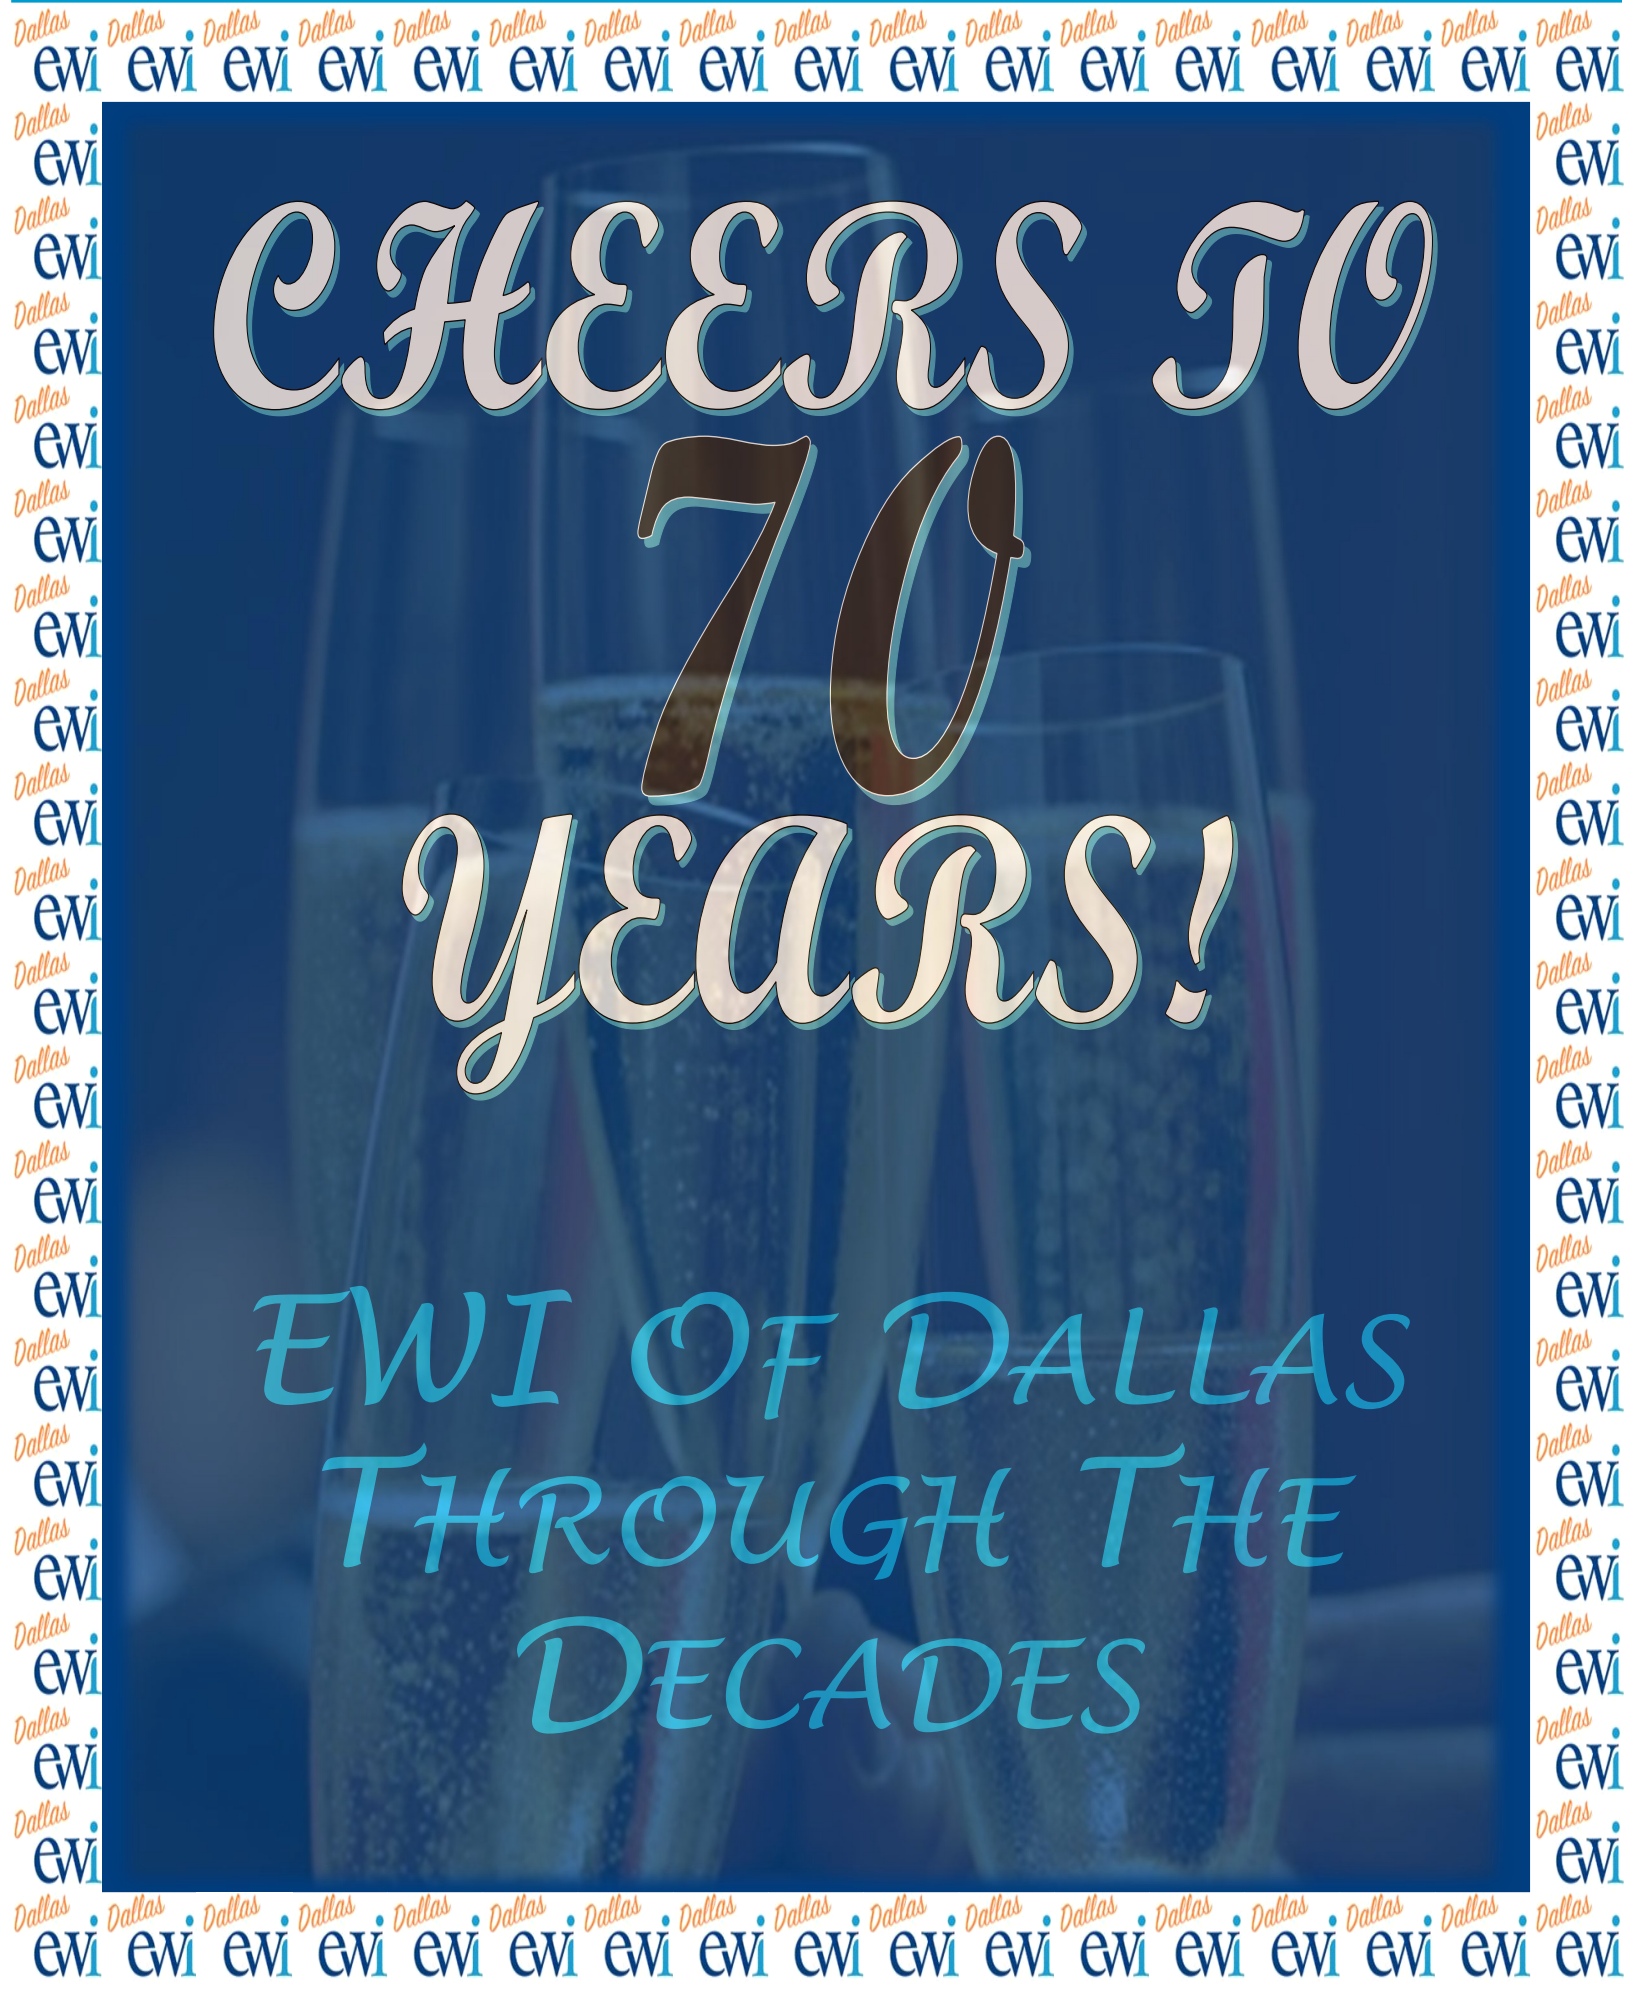

I hope that everyone is as excited about what 2022 has in store for you personally and the Chapter. May our Chapter's "word of the year" excite us and drive the chapter "Onward to Greatness."

Cheers to the New Year!

Dawn Redmond

CHEERS TO 70 YEARS!

EWI OF DALLAS
THROUGH THE DECADES

Dallas in the 1950's

The year was 1951 and Dallas' population was 434,000. The city's first expressway had just been built – The Central Expressway. It was in the summer that National Officers of Executives' Secretaries, Inc. (ESI) began considering a Texas chapter. This organization sought to bring together the highest-ranking women in corporations. At that time, these positions were usually the secretaries of the CEO's. After a few preliminary inquiries, Katherine Marshall of the Los Angeles Chapter contacted her brother, Louis Egan, an independent oil operator in Dallas. Mr. Egan was quick to become interested in the organization; and he, in turn, relayed his enthusiasm to his secretary, Lou Ballou.

Through correspondence with National Officers, Lou learned more about Executives' Secretaries and, with the help of Elva Patterson of Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, other firms in the city were contacted. In July, Katherine Marshall visited Dallas and held a meeting with the interested group and some of the officers of the new chapter were elected. A final meeting was held in the fall and the remaining officers and directors were elected to complete the Board.

THE CHARTER DINNER

December 14, 1951 - Adolphus Hotel

The charter dinner for the Dallas Chapter, the ninth chapter of ESI, was held exactly 70 years ago on December 14, 1951, at the Adolphus Hotel. National Director Corris Guy presided as Mistress of Ceremonies and Ruby Sorber, National President of the Las Vegas Chapter, Doris Otto of the Los Angeles Chapter, and Mr. A. E. Chalan of the Las Vegas Review Journal, participated in the program and told the group what ESI means to the secretary, the firm and the community. Lou Ballou was installed as the first Dallas President. And so the second ESI chapter outside the state of California was gloriously welcomed into the organization with twenty-two charter member firms and representatives. By the end of the next year, there were 38 member firms.

In the audience of that first Installation dinner in 1951 was young Dorothy Vaughan, a secretary at Dr Pepper Co. Louis Egan had contacted Leonard Green, President of Dr Pepper, who had agreed to join ESI as a charter member. However, Mr. Green's secretary at the time was male. Instead of sending the secretary of a VP, Mr. Green asked Dorothy, who filled in for his secretary, to go the meeting and see what it was all about. Little did he or Dorothy realize the impact of that request!

Dorothy Vaughan went on to become his permanent long-time secretary and served as Dallas President in 1954 and 1955 and as National President of ESI in 1957-58. She was an active representative until her retirement in 1988 from Leonard Green Investments and today she remains a Corporate Life member in EWI. Dorothy Vaughan is our Living Legend. She could not attend the 70th Anniversary Dinner as she is very active in her retirement community and was already booked for the evening.

Work attire in the 1950's

Dallas has a rich history of women trailblazers, and the climate was right for a chapter of professional secretaries to succeed. Did you know that in 1953, Bette Nesmith Graham, a secretary at Texas Bank and Trust, patented her typo-correcting paint that is now known as Liquid Paper.

Philanthropy in the 50's

The Chapter quickly went to work providing scholarships and doing community service.

1960's

Work Attire

The world in the 1960's was changing. As such, the roles for working women began to change. Great women entrepreneurs such as Mary Kay Ash birthed businesses during this time. The Civil Rights Movement prompted women to find their voices in the workplace and the desire to be seen as equals.

Chapter Achievements

EWI of Dallas Chapter continued to impact the Dallas community and the organization as a whole. From 1985- 86, Alice Snavelly representing Neiman-Marcus Co, became the third member of the chapter to become the Corporate president. Then from 1990-1991, Betty Fendley representing Ernst & Young, led the International organization.

The chapter hosted the Leadership Conference and Annual Meeting in 1996 with Roger Staubach as the keynote speaker.

In 1997, the Chapter implemented the scholarship program aimed at providing financial assistance to adults returning to college. The Adult Students in Scholastic Transition scholarship known as ASIST, is available to adults facing economic, social or physical challenges who are looking to return to school to improve their situation through educational opportunities.

ESTABLISHED

Each year, the chapter hosts its largest fundraiser called Executives Night to provide a networking opportunity for the Executives as well as special recognition. One of the tenets in EWI is Connection. The benefit of a firm joining EWI is that it provides connection with other firms in Dallas area. In 2001, Ebby Halliday became the first recipient of the newly established Executive Excellence Award which recognized Executives who have been active in the EWI and active in the community. That year the award was renamed the Ebby Halliday Executive Excellence Award.

LCAMs 2012 and 2017

Still seen as a leading chapter in the organization, EWI of Dallas was selected to host LCAM in 2012 and 2017.

Our chapter relies on donations from corporations and the community to fund its scholarship and community service. Since the chapter's inception, the group has held fundraisers to raise money such as raffles, golf tournaments, casino nights, silent auctions and Dollars for Scholars etc. In fact, proceeds from the 70th celebration will be used for scholarships and charitable events.

2020 & 2021

The Pandemic Years

EWI of Dallas, like every organization, faced many setbacks during the pandemic. However, the chapter found ways to persevere through innovation. I would like Denise Labrado, Dallas Chapter President 2019-2020 and Lisa Tignor, Dallas Chapter President 2020-2021. These two ladies lead with grace and determination during these years.

Zoom Meetings

The chapter quickly adapted by holding virtual meetings and fundraisers. The chapter's philanthropy efforts continued through adoption of King Academy where the chapter donated hats and gloves to the students as well as hosted a reading rally. The chapter held a virtual scholarship night which allowed the family and friends of the scholarship recipients to attend from around the nation. Connection is a big part of who we are. To keep the spirits of the members connected, the chapter sent surprise gifts to the membership.
